

Successful organisations use innovation as a mechanism for driving sustained improvement in their business. This can be incremental or more transformative change, 'new to the world innovation', or 'new to the organisation innovation'.

